

Staying Connected with Campus Services

With this week's confirmation that undergraduate students will start arriving on Sept. 8, it's time to put our service hats on! Let's continue to be creative, to be observant of one another and make every effort to keep the campus and community safe. And for those who continue to work remotely, thank you. The Campus Services team is cohesive and strong whether we're 6-feet—or a Zoom call—apart.

On Campus Employee Guidelines

Employees who work on campus should expect to follow these guidelines to help maximize the health and safety of themselves and others:

- Participate in asymptomatic testing for faculty, staff, and researchers.
- On each day you come to campus, take your temperature and respond to questions on the Temperature Self-Assessment website.
- Stay home if you have symptoms consistent with COVID-19.
- Wear cloth face coverings at all times when using or accessing shared or communal spaces and when a minimum of six feet of physical distancing is difficult to maintain.
- Review the office safety video for proper hand-washing and disinfecting techniques and cleaning protocols. Thanks to EH&S for putting this together!

Staff Kudos!

"Thank you, Frank [Roberts], for trusting a couple of strangers wandering around the construction site with a claim to a set of cable spools, for locating them, and discreetly calling your crew to help out.

Thank you, Dale [Ordway] and Dave [Miller], for rolling and lifting them out of the campus and accompanying us all the way to the Ray School and doing the trip twice!

We are delighted and grateful! These spools will become outdoor tables just outside of our Art Room."

Sincerely,
Ruth Arjona,
Technology Coordinator,
Bernice A. Ray School

Update on TSA Stations

Effective Aug. 31 Dartmouth is no longer staffing physical locations on campus where employees can answer the TSA questions. If you are unable to access the TSA website, please contact your supervisor. 32 non-contact wall-mounted infrared thermometers have been installed in a variety of locations on campus for broad use.
