

These mailings are designed to keep neighbors informed of Dartmouth's planning process to develop undergraduate apartments at Lyme Road.

Please note the next community meeting will be held in early April, not Feb. 22.

Students Provide Input

Undergraduate students recently shared their ideas and views on the proposed Lyme Road apartments with the planning team during an online focus group and a student town hall. In addition, more than 1,100 undergraduate students participated in the winter housing survey. Early findings from the survey indicate significant interest in apartment-style living and amenities at this location.

Planning Work Continues

Dartmouth is committed to an integrated, sustainable Lyme Road plan that addresses energy, transportation, landscape, and ecology. We want to build upon and strengthen existing recreational uses, keeping in mind the needs of both the community and Dartmouth students. We are listening to community and student ideas.

To fully incorporate feedback and other data into the process, Dartmouth is extending the planning process. Our next community meeting will be scheduled in April.

What's Happening in Late February & March?

- VP of Campus Services Josh Keniston and EVP Rick Mills will meet with leaders from key stakeholder groups.
- Our team will dive more deeply into the planning process to incorporate feedback on the housing proposal and concerns about mobility, sustainability, resiliency, and recreation.
- The next community meeting will be scheduled in April.

Jan. 20: Community Engagement

More than 240 neighbors joined the Jan. 20 community webinar hosted by the planning team. The "Planning for Possibilities" strategic campus framework was presented as well as the concept for developing apartment-style housing on the east side of Lyme Road. The team also polled participants with questions focused on the character of the Lyme Road area, recreation, mobility, and other amenities, and whether this project could be leveraged to address other improvements in the area. Following are some of the polling results:

Write three words that capture what makes the Lyme Road area unique and special to you.

Click on the map and drop a pin where you access trails.

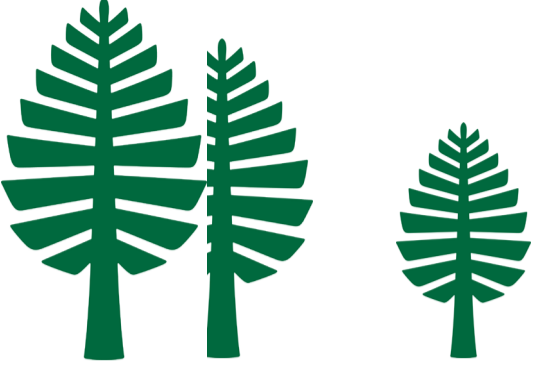

Presentation materials, the meeting video, and polling responses are posted on the project website.

How to Stay Informed

FAQs and other information about this project are available in the Planning & Design Phase section of the Campus Services Projects website at campus-services.dartmouth.edu/projects.

Email campus.planning@dartmouth.edu to let us know if you are interested in receiving periodic email notices.

Questions: Email your thoughts or concerns to campus.planning@dartmouth.edu.

Dear Neighbors

Keeping you informed of Dartmouth planning in the Lyme
Road area