Around Campus

Have you noticed the double trailer located on Maffei Plaza, just behind the Hood Museum? This is the temporary location of Dartmouth's Student Woodshop which has been relocated during the Hopkins Center expansion and renovation. The trailer space is incredibly well-organized, taking advantage of every nook and cranny of its 900 sq ft. Despite the fact that the previous Woodshop in the Hopkins Center basement was over 6,000 sq ft, the temporary space holds one of each type of equipment.

Greg Elder, Director of the Student Woodshop, said the shop supports student coursework in engineering, graphic arts, classics, and several other departments. Most of the students, however, are 'walk-ins' who want to create something of their own design on their own time.

As expected, Campus Services was involved in setting up this structure. Thanks to Project Manager Joe Roberts who procured the unit, pulled permits, coordinated the install, worked with the town to ensure the woodshop would be able to operate safely with the equipment getting installed, and worked with the electrical shop to get power to the woodshop.

If you're walking by during Woodshop hours, stop by to see what's going on. Greg and the students are eager to tell you about their projects.

Do you want to be transported to the tropics? This week's weather will certainly put you in the mood to enjoy Dartmouth's Caribbean Carnival for a day of non-stop music, dancing, food, and festivities. A parade begins tomorrow, April 15, at 11 a.m. at Shabazz and goes to Mass Row with festivities continuing until 3 p.m. As described on Dartmouth's Events page, "Our carnival promises to be a celebration of Caribbean culture from the colorful costumes to the infectious rhythms of the steel drums. Indulge in the flavors of the islands with authentic Caribbean cuisine... while enjoying the vibrant atmosphere."

Sponsored by the Office of Pluralism and Leadership (OPAL), the Carnival is "a recognition and celebration of the many cultures across the 13 nations and 700 islands of the Caribbean. This event... introduces the larger Dartmouth community to the food, music, and movement of Caribbean culture through social connection."

- EHS office at 37 Dewey Field Rd.
- Courtyard Café
- Byrne Café at Tuck
- Raether C51 for Tuck Facilities
- Hinman Mail at '53 Commons

Thanks to everyone for sharing ideas on how to improve communications throughout Campus Services. You ROCK!
