COMMENCEMENT 2023

To: All FO&M Staff
RE: Thank you

Thank you. Your individual efforts, and teamwork on display over Commencement weekend and the time leading up to Commencement was terrific. Your efforts made it possible for the returning alumni, students, their families, and departing President Phil Hanlon to have an experience that they will remember for the rest of their lives.

I have great admiration not only for the work that you do, but how you serve as ambassadors of Dartmouth, making our students feel at home while welcoming their family, friends and returning alumni to the Campus.

I have received many compliments from the campus community. When I receive these compliments, I credit you all for the work and making everything happen. It is impossible for me to single out any one effort out as it is a collective effort with everyone in the entire department working together to get the grounds, buildings, and their systems ready to go prior to commencement. Then, your efforts continue setting up, running, and cleaning up after the many events that take place.

Now, it is Reunion weekend and we have spent the week getting ready for it. So many alumni return, because of what Phil Hanlon describes as a “Profound Sense of Place”. That place is the Campus that we take care of. I hope that you feel a sense of pride in your work as it helps create so many positive experiences for so many people. I know that I admire and appreciate it.

Thank you again.

Lunch and Learn

On Tuesday, June 20th participants enjoyed a delicious Free lunch at the Class of 1953 Commons and then joined Chef Christopher Kaschak in the Paganucci Lounge to learn the art of salad dressing. The consensus was overwhelmingly positive and participants shared suggestions for additional Lunch and Learn's. Stay tuned!

Good morning – I wanted to stop and thank you both for all the help you gave me during reunions. You both made the all the movements that had to take place very easy, and I appreciate all the time and work you put in. You both have such a great attitude and enjoyable can-do manner. Makes my job so much more enjoyable.

On behalf of all of us at DGALA, we send to you and your team our great thanks for the wonderful breakfast that you provided for us at our mini-reunion event on Saturday morning. All was wonderful, and you really went the extra mile. And it was a pleasure to meet and chat with you.
